What is Intentional Peer Support?

Intentional Peer Support (IPS) is a powerful framework for thinking about and creating mutual relationships, and is used across the world in settings ranging from peer-run programs to community managed organisations to traditional mental health services. For more information visit: www.intentionalpeersupport.org

Why an Expression of Interest?

We are keen to see further opportunities for IPS training and practice in NSW (and Australia). While we feel pretty certain there are many peer workers out there who are keen to learn this innovative approach, we need to be confident we have enough interest to fill the five-day workshop in order for the training to be viable.

I'm interested! What do I need to do now?

Contact Kath at kath@insideoutconversations.com.au or on 0435 348 168 to register your interest by 27th August 2018.
